On Sunday morning Rev. Henry Ward in which he believes to the two great popular | June 17. lya Eagle, we learn that upon the text the Divine fiat: "Vengeance is mine; I will tendent of this work, and divers others. repay, saith the Lord." In the application of the conclusions reached from the text, Mr. Beecher came, toward the close of his discourse, to the duties of communities and nations to each other. And here he held that the rule was the same, and for the same reasons, as in individual cases. This he illustrated by an allusion to the present troubles on the border. "I hear men say : 'Aba! it's their turn now. Let us be quiet, and allow the Fenians to return to them some of their St. Albans courtesies. I'd just like to see a town or two burned, a bank er se robbed, just to let them know how good it is " Well, now, this is all wrong. I will not deny that my natural man was dians did act most unfairly, and the mother

I want to heap coals of fire on their heads by cream or almond paste. And why should showing the grand spectacle of a Christian nation actuated by Christian principles. If England is involved in war, I don't want to see a single ship go out of our ports to destroy ber commerce, and over the Canadian border I do not want a single cottage harmed. I want them to find their evil overcome by good. The way to live in peace is to be better than your enemy-in his opinion, not vours." After enlarging somewhat on this point, Mr. Beecher paused, and looking around with a humorous glance, continued, "I don't know whether I'd better make any further application of this principle or not. I have not been very popular with my people during the past year. I have failed to carry them altogether with me on some public questions -and I am sorry for them! But I must say that I cannot escape the direct bearing of this Gospel law. I am as strong as ever in the conviction that the true result of the war must be recognized. From the Panama Star and Herald, June 12. A most lamentable and fatal columity, causing the loss of life of ten persons, occurred at Valparaiso on the 3d of May. A German named Flach had constructed a submarine boat, intended as a torpedo. On the 3d he made several experiments in sinking and raising the boat in four fathoms of water. He then got a party of friends on board, the names of a majority of whom have been ascertained, namely: Flach's son, a boy 14 years old; Valentine Baum, Gustave Mans, August Warmuth, German Schmidt, Louis Grenis winkle, Adolfo Pulgar, Francisco Rodriguez, and two Frenchmen. With them he proceeded some distance out in the harbor, and there again sunk his boat with himself and friends on board in thirty fathoms. No anxiety was felt about the expedition for some time, Flach having stated that he could remain under water easily for the space of six going down Flach was so confident in the possible it was as fellows : success of his experiments that he would not allow any buoy or rope to be attached to the sent among you by the United States gov- anthers are numerous; the fruit is a capsule beat, and thus no search could be made for ernment, to examine into the conduct of the stuffe I with greenish padding, in which lie them with any certainty of success. Living Frog in the Centre of a Marble,

From the Louisville Courier. On last Thursday, June 13th, as the masons were preparing the largest stones for erected by the McElroys & Co., in Springfield, Kentucky, they came upon a living frog in the middle of a large stone, walled about with solid stone on all sides.

The stone came from the quarry on the farm of Mr. Mulligan, near Springfield, about ten feet below the surface. Imme-1 w. 2 w. 1 m. 3 m. 6 m. 1 y.

"Never despair." says Professor Jeannet. of Bordeaux; "your coal fields may fail, but acetate of soda will at any rate prevent your noble race from perishing during that gloomy British winter." This substance affords, in fact, says the Professor, a means of "storing up the solar beat." Its peculiarity is, that while it crystallizes when exposed, in solution, to a very slight degree of cold, it will all kinds of cool without crystallizing if placed in a closed vessel. Cooling thus, it retains the greater part of the calorie which it had absorded while being melted; and this caloric is given off the moment the bottle is uncorked or the

A its readily adaptation to all kinds of buildings, steep or flat roofs, old or new. It is readily applied to old shingle roofs without removing the shingles, it costs less than half as much as tin and is twice as durable, it is not affected injurously by heat or cold, it will not crack in cold or run nawarm weather, it is perfectly fire proof, against failing coals or burning fragments from adjoining buildings on fire, it can be walked upon without injury. Gutters can be formed of this material thus saving the cost of metallones, the weight is only one fourth of the gravel roofing, thereby saving the cost of roof timbers, in many cases the price of the roofing.

For uniformity of quality, compactness of finish, faculty of application, cheapness and durability it is A No. 1.
